Community-led Innovation

Is the Case Study considered an “innovative model”??

It is a case of “intrapreneurship”

Recently awarded with Princesa de Girona Award.

It develops social projects providing impact data and indicators

BACKGROUND

Arquitectura Sin Fronteras Levante (ASF) was created in 1995.

They are an association, formed mainly by volunteers, that develops integral projects in the Levante area and in Central America related to architecture, urbanism, infrastructure and education and awareness, with the objective of promoting independent, participative and sustainable local development, respecting the environment and the different cultures.

Areas of activity: Local cooperation, International cooperation and education for development.

CORE BUSINESS: (Sustainable Development Goal APPLIED)

MISSION: To work on improving habitability and defending people's right to a decent habitat by promoting equitable and sustainable human development.

ARQUITECTURA SIN FRONTERAS LEVANTE plays a crucial role in achieving the Sustainable Development Goals, especially in terms of building sustainable cities and communities (SDG11), reducing poverty (SDG1) and reducing inequalities (SDG10-SDG17). By working in partnership with local communities and other stakeholders, ASF Levante contributes to creating a more just and equitable future for all.

KEY SUCCESS FACTORS

Awareness-raising: Through various events and activities, they work to raise public awareness of human rights and the Millennium Development Goals, especially in relation to overcoming the causes of poverty and improving education, gender equality, health and environmental quality, regardless of race, religion, creed or political affiliation.

Possible factors to be included:

Problem identification -

Difficulties and challenges.

The main challenge lies in making institutions and stakeholders understand that the actions they implement have an impact over time and with tangible results in the long term. It is necessary to know how to communicate the projects to the different institutions through indicators and with the necessary rigor to obtain their support.
